From Your Priest:

"Barn Building" Luke 12:13-21

We get some high drama in our Gospel lesson from Luke this week. Things seem to be going pretty well for the farmer in the story. Abundance, good fortune, the good life. His biggest problem is where to store up all his grain (and gain). The solution appears to lie in building bigger barns, making more room for his wealth. In the meantime, what is not to enjoy? It's all about squeezing the most out of life, right? (And what could possibly go wrong?) God apparently has other plans. God sort of stages an intervention of the most serious kind. The game is up! Tonight! All that barn-building, all that effort to make more room for more and more and more. What happens next? Who gets all that stuff? The question, as ever, is what our life is all about, and who is in control.

THINK ON THIS:

"This is the message we have heard from Him and proclaim to you, that God is light and in Him there is no darkness at all." 1 John 1:5 (NIV)

"Again Jesus spoke to them, saying,

'I am the light of the world. Whoever follows me will not walk in darkness, but will have the light of life.' " John 8:12 (ESV)

"If you're facing a trial today, remember that the Lord doesn't wander away while you're in pain. He won't take a vacation; He will sit there, watching over you until your faith is refined like gold. That's a promise from the Lord, Our Refiner."

— Jonie Eareckson Tada

"But He knows the way that I take; when He has tested me, I shall come out like gold. Job 23:10 (NIV)

was the Word, and the Word
was with God,
and the Word was God."

John 1:1 (NIV)
